

The BodyChem™ Program, developed by Jay Foster, is designed to identify nutrient deficiencies and imbalances within the body. It begins with a comprehensive blood test that can detect a wide range of imbalances. If any irregularities are found, additional blood tests may be recommended. The program also includes a trace mineral hair analysis to assess mineral deficiencies and the presence of toxic metals. To monitor your progress, a follow-up blood test is included after one month, along with a comprehensive blood and trace mineral analysis after three months. This program is available both locally and throughout Florida, with options for long-distance testing. Once all test results are in, a detailed report with findings and personalized recommendations will be created and emailed to you. For more information or if you have any questions, feel free to call or email.
